School Board Contests Share With City Ticket in Attracting Attention as Chief Deputy J. S. Hilbert Stands Pat on Prediction of 5,000 Votes.

With attention centered upon the mayoralty and school board fights, approximately 5,000 East Liverpool electors are expected to go to the polls tomorrow to select municipal and township officers, three members of the board of education and to cast ballots on two state and two local issues.

FATE OF MARSHALL BILL DEPENDS ON SIZE OF RURAL VOTE, SAYS AUTHOR

XENIA, O., Nov. 7.—"In my opinion, the result will depend entirely on the size of the rural vote."

Senator L. T. Marshall made this statement when questioned today concerning the outcome of the referendum vote tomorrow on the Marshall justice-of-the-peace fee bill of which he is the author.

He declared, however, that he expected the favorable rural vote to outweigh the city vote which is generally considered opposed to the law.

Added interest was given the three-cornered mayoralty race today when Charles Brown, Republican nominee, issued a signed statement, declaring that he will appoint a committee selected from every walk of life, and not from any one faction, to aid and assist me in the selection of my safety-service director, in the event of his election. Brown said that he had made no "pre-election promise to any one," and that he will "counsel with a representative committee and the Republican party" before naming his appointee.

Brown's statement follows:
"For the information of the citizens of East Liverpool, I desire to announce that in the event of my election as mayor of East Liverpool, I will have a committee of representative citizens, selected from every walk of life and not from any one faction, to aid and assist me in the selection of my safety-service director."

"I have made no selection for this important position, as a pre-election promise to any one, as I consider it my duty, if elected, to counsel with a representative committee and the Republican party for this important place, service-safety director."

BATTLE OVER MARSHALL PROPOSAL HIGHLIGHT OF VOTING IN STATE

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—With the fight over the Marshall bill attracting the major interest of Ohio voters, finishing touches were being given throughout the state today to the state-wide and local campaign which terminate at the polls Tuesday.

Politicians here today predicted that unless an unexpectedly heavy dry vote is cast in the rural districts in support of the measure, the Marshall bill will be defeated by an overwhelming adverse vote in the cities and other urban territory. Predictions were made by these politicians that, if the rural vote is light, the Marshall bill will be defeated by a majority ranging from 25,000 to more than 100,000.

Political experts, also, voiced belief that municipal voters will bring about the defeat of the chiropractors' bill by a majority greater than that determining the fate of the Marshall bill.

"Yes" Vote O. K.'s Bill.
Besides the statewide elections Tuesday on the Marshall and the chiropractors' bills, there will be the election of local municipal, township and school district officers. No state or county officers will be chosen, aside from county school board members. Proposed bond issues and tax levies, also, will be disposed of in many voting districts throughout the state.

The Marshall bill, passed at the last session of the Ohio legislature, was designed to provide legal compensation for village mayors, justices of the peace, constables, marshals, and assistants, in liquor cases, etc., as provided from becoming effective as law when opponents of the bill launched a referendum last summer. A "Yes" vote Tuesday favors the bill while a "No" vote seeks to make the referendum effective by defeating the bill.

In the event that the Marshall bill is defeated, it was expected that Governor Vio Donahay will ask the Ohio legislature, in a special session here early next year, to pass a law providing for a system of inferior courts empowered to handle liquor cases which, in the past, were prosecuted before village mayors and justices of the peace.

NEW ENGLAND'S flood becomes more alarming in its extent, lives lost and damage done. The President immediately orders army fliers to cover the stricken district and report. Flying machines are now the eyes of government, as they will be the reliance and defense of government in war.

Secretary Davis will have the War Department do everything possible in the way of supplies and men that may be needed, army headquarters in Boston supplying them.

STOCKS went up Saturday. Steel, General Motors, many others. Wall Street learns that new financing this year amounts to more than six thousand million dollars, eclipsing 1926 by more than a billion and a half. All this new wealth is absorbed with ease, in a country with people that earn every year ten billions more than it costs to live.

LARGER deposits in Southern banks are reported from Memphis, throughout the central section. In that and the high quality of cotton adding to the value of the crop, there is good news for the whole country.

"Short Cut" Lincoln Route to Pittsburgh Via Clinton, Pa., Open

Motorists Use Highway Cleaved Out of Hills, Slashing 12 Miles of Travel From Road Which Connects Ceramic City With Steel Metropolis.

Over hills and through valley and following a route which for a greater part of the distance no road has ever existed, a 12-mile section of improved highway, providing a "short cut" between East Liverpool and Pittsburgh through the southwestern part of Beaver county, has been thrown open to travel.

The road is not completed, nor is it likely to be finished until next spring, but nevertheless it will be opened for motorists this winter. At one place along the road two steam shovels are still engaged in removing slips, which for weeks completely blocked the road. These slips probably will be cleared by November 15, but the construction of draining ditches and the finishing touches on at least a part of the road must wait until next spring.

The new artery of transportation is a part of the official routing of the Lincoln highway which a few years ago followed a course along the north side of the Ohio river through Beaver and Rochester. Officials of the Lincoln Highway association have promised to erect their official markings along the road, removing misleading detour signs, which were placed through the Beaver valley.

"Air Line" Route.
The route, which passed through Chester, Clinton, Imperial and Grafton, is almost an "air line" between East Liverpool and Pittsburgh. Tests which have been made with the speedometer of an automobile show the distance from the East Liverpool post-office to the Point bridge, Pittsburgh, to be 40 miles. The route through Midland, Beaver, Rochester Sewickley, Coraopolis, Neville Island and McKees Rocks to the Point bridge is approximately 52 miles. The road which follows the upper side of the Ohio river from Sewickley through Avalon and into Pittsburgh via Allegheny is even longer.

The new stretch of highway in Pennsylvania represents an expendi-

Frank Velto, Alleged Assailant, Taken to Jail.

Frank Velto, 33, Weirton, is being held without bail today in the county jail at New Cumberland charged with shooting Joseph Augo, 22, and Frank Spalafora, 24.

Both victims were removed to the Ohio Valley hospital, Steubenville, where it was said today the condition of Augo was critical. The bullet entered his abdomen. Spalafora, who received a wound in the stomach, will recover.

Prosecuting Attorney Thomas S. Hoffman said today that both men identified Velto. Jealousy, according to the prosecutor, was the motive for the shooting.

The two victims, according to Mrs. Velto, formerly roomed at their home but the husband recently ordered them out because he suspected them of telling her that he spent his money gambling.

CONNECTICUT DUE TO FEEL CREST OF MIGHTY WATERS AS 125 DIE IN OTHER NEW ENGLAND STATES

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—As the estimated death list neared 150 persons in the New England flood disaster, the menace of disease, starvation and fire loomed over the stricken area, despite news that the waters were receding.

The town of Ludlow, Vt., home town of Attorney General John G. Sargent, was reported saved from destruction by fire owing to a providential shift in the wind. The fire began in a store and spread quickly to an adjoining lumber yard. Water to fight the flames had to be drawn from the Black river.

Springfield, Vt., also underwent a fire but the flames were subdued. Throughout the flood region, the collapse of the water mains feeding the fire fighting system heightened the danger from fires.

Typhoid fever has broken out in several Vermont towns, according to reports received here today. The disease claimed its first victim outside Montpelier, Vt., among the flood refugees to the north of the Winooski river.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 7.—The mud floods of upper New England have passed—but as they moved southward and east to the sea today, Connecticut, already lashed by advance freshets, was due to feel the crest of the mighty wall of water which has wreaked such havoc in other New England states.

Behind the waters today is a mounting list of dead, now estimated at 125 and a hundred million dollars in wreckage. Snow has come bringing new peril of the elements to the northern valleys where manpower is being conscripted to rehabilitate the devastated regions and to the hills where other countless thousands, unsheltered seek safety from the raging waters.

Food supplies in Vermont, home state of the president, and worst hit of all are running low.

By edict of Governor Weeks and committees appointed to conserve rations until roads have been patched up and new supplies arrive, only half a loaf of bread a day is allowed for each person.

to their collection by a 12-0 win from here yesterday afternoon. The contest was played against a biting wind that made kicking from the east side of the field almost impossible.

Monaca was unable to gain through the Steel City's line. Both teams tried frequent passes, and Monaca had a slight edge on the Firemen in that department.

Early in the first quarter Monaca turned back Midland on their five-yard line, when the plunging Orange and Black backs threatened to score.

Firemen, however, were halted only temporarily. When they regained the ball, they commenced a march down field through Monaca's yielding line, and Skellar scored the touchdown. Try for point failed. Half ended 6-0.

In the third period, Frank Benedict smothered a Monaca heave and raced 30 yards for the Firemen's second score.
Extra point after touchdown was lost on a wild pass from Sundae to Bene-

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

NINE AND POSSIBLY ELEVEN NEW MEN TO BE IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The United States senate will extend the glad hand of welcome to nine new senators on Dec. 5.

A tenth and eleventh—who may prove to be new senators and who may not—will appear, anxious to learn what kind of hand they'll get—or foot—William S. Vare and Frank L. Smith.

To one senator—Smith W. Brookhart—the senate's greeting will be "Glad to see you back," for Brookhart was a senator once before, then was out of the senate for a space, and now he returns.

Besides, twenty old senators will start new terms, without a break.

OF the new senators, five are Democrats who crowded out Republicans.

Of these five, four the old hands in the house of representatives and the senate already has them pretty well sized up.

They're Carl Hayden, Arizona; Albert W. Barkley, Kentucky; Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma, and Millard E. Tydings, Maryland. Barkley enjoys the distinction of an Anti-Saloon League endorsement as a good dry candidate for president.

The other new Democrat is Judge Robert F. Wagner, the Tammanyite who retired Senator Jimmie Wadsworth of New York.

No Democrats, already in the senate, were beaten by Republicans. The Democrats had the better of that shake-up all 'round.

THE Republicans not only lose five seats to Democrats, but the regular Republicans lost two to insurgents.

One goes to Brookhart, Iowa. His first term expiring three years ago, he thought he'd been reelected and sat for awhile but finally was contested out of his place by Dan F. Steak, Democrat. So Brookhart had to run again. He beat Senator Albert B. Cummins, Cummins died, David W. Stewart filled out, by appointment, what was left of his term, and now it's Brookhart's turn again.

Equally insurgent, from Wisconsin comes John J. Blaine.

BLAINE's appearance is awaited with a lot of interest.

Though he's new to Washington, the senate's heard a great deal about him as Badger State governor.

They say he's a regular hurricane on wheels—an orator for fair—a catalyst in a fight—a political genius advanced in his views to the verge of falling off—sopping wet—Wisconsin's favorite son for the presidency—all kinds o' things.

The impression here is that he'll start in to raise Jesse from the world, and maybe make the progressives themselves hump to keep up with him.

THE three remaining freshmen are Charles W. Waterman, Colorado Republican; Frederick Steiwer, Oregon ditto, and Hugo Black, Senator Oscar W. Underwood's successor from Alabama—a Democrat, of course.

They're comparatively unknown to the capital.

Waterman and Steiwer are reported flirting with the farm bloc. Black's assumed to be everything that Underwood wasn't—Underwood was a Jefferson Democrat of the old school—because Underwood dropped out, knowing he stood no show.

OH, yes—Vare and Smith?

But it's too soon to describe their welcome yet. It may not take the usual conventional form.

To Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to make. Saves about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is, pine has a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrup is a combination of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. This makes a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold instantly. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—infamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, bronchitis and hoarseness.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaracol, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1927.

Tomorrow's Election

East Liverpool electors tomorrow will select city and township governments, including a mayor and seven councilmen, and three members of the board of education as well as determine the fate of two local issues and pass judgment upon two state proposals.

With its vast pottery interests, dependent upon a protective tariff, always a plank in a G. O. P. platform, the Ceramic City is known in state and national politics as a Republican community. And is should maintain its prestige as such by electing Charles Brown, mayoralty nominee, and his running mates on the municipal ticket in tomorrow's balloting. The township and board of education candidates appear on non-partisan ballots.

Citizens who are interested in placing the fire department on a basis that will permit protection of endangered property—a standard demanded by the National Board of Fire Underwriters—should approve the proposed one-mill levy.

The appalling toll of life exacted annually by fireworks should be an argument in support of the councilmanic ban on fireworks, which will be subjected to a referendum.

Every man and woman should exercise his or her duty as a citizen by voting. If you have failed to transfer, do so in your precinct pilling place before 9 o'clock tonight. And don't forget to vote between 6:30 a. m. and 6:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Doped Horses

Here is a serious indictment of "the sport of king," as now conducted.

A Canadian race-horse trainer, arrested recently at Detroit for "trafficking in narcotics," protested that the "dope" found in his possession was not intended for human beings but for horses, and therefore he did not come within the scope of the anti-narcotics law.

It was his custom, he explained, to give a "shot of dope" to horses before every important race.

The relation of this confession to the moral status of the racing game is evident. Another thing to be considered is the effect on the horse-breeding industry. A Canadian newspaper, the Hamilton Spectator, says:

"The practice is a direct contradiction of the argument that legalizing horse racing improves the thoroughbred stock of the country. Men who administer narcotics to horses are cruel. Animals that become drug addicts assuredly suffer the same torments of jangling nerves that human beings who take dope experience. If it is impossible to stamp out the practice in any other way than by the abolition of horse-racing, then we can't have the anti-race-track legislation too soon."

Professional betting and dope—these seem to be the two great enemies of what should be a noble sport.

Reason For Gratitude

"Not only have we enjoyed material success," says President Coolidge in his Thanksgiving Day Proclamation, "but we have advanced in wisdom and spiritual understanding."

"The product of our fields and our factories and of our manifold activities have been maintained on a high level. We have gained in knowledge of the higher values of life."

"There has been advancement in our physical well-being. We have increased our desire for the things that minister to the mind and to the soul. We have raised the mental and moral standards of life."

Let us hope so. And if this is the case, there is cause indeed for national gratitude. For it is spiritual gifts rather than material prosperity that makes rich a man or a nation.

Mexican Sovereignty

Mexico lives in perpetual fear of being gobbled up by the United States. Unfortunately that fear has been fostered by wild and egotistical statements made from time to time by some of our private citizens, newspapers and public officials. It is the chief obstacle to friendly understanding and pleasant relations between the two countries.

Fortunately the first official words of Ambassador Morrow to the president of Mexico have been of an entirely different tenor. He expressly declared that Mexico is a sovereign and independent country, on a basis of equality with the United States. If he seemed to go out of his way a little to make such a statement, it was evidently justified by the circumstances and the results. The immediate effect in Mexico has been to create a better atmosphere for the settlement of the serious problems affecting the two countries.

It is always the diplomatic theory, and the theory of international law, that self governing countries are equals. All treaties are negotiated on that basis. It is necessary to make that assumption, and to insist on it especially in the relations of two countries of unequal power that are close neighbors and have to get along together.

Different countries, like different citizens of the same country, are not equal in wealth, fighting power and culture, but they are equal politically. All decent and fair American opinion will uphold Ambassador Morrow in making it very clear to Mexico and other Latin American neighbors that our nation regards them as politically free and equal to ourselves, and has no desire to bulldoze or dominate them.

Intolerance usually works out for the best. There's said to be a run on the Chicago library now for history books.

Long Before Aviation Was Ever Dreamed Of—

By Fontaine Fox

(C) Fontaine Fox, 1927, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Diary of a modern Poppy: Came Major Raymond Diskson from his ranch in Mexico as sleekly habited as a Bond street dandy and surprisingly changed from when I last saw him, booted and spurred, roping calves on the pampas.

Through the town and a fellow, foxed with drink, hiccuped sneers at my spats, and if it was his intention to make me feel foolish, he did. And meeting Edwin Balmer I told him his new book, "Dangerous Business," was the finest he had written since "Indian Drum," which was one of the best novels ever written.

In the evening to see George White's "Manhattan Mary," and George was in the box office and handed me the tickets and frankly ushered us to our seats. And never have I seen Ed Wynn so hilariously droll. So to Jay C. Flippen's night club, and home to bed.

Hand writing experts uncover strange quirks of human perversity. That they retain any respect for humanity is remarkable. One tells me of a woman whose health was being wrecked by elmy insinuations by mail. All her personal movements, which were innocent enough, were interpreted into suspicious of infamy. Servants were discharged, but the letters continued. It developed the letters were written by her husband, to cover up his intrigues with a charmer. He kept his wife in such perpetual turmoil she had no time to keep track of him.

Anonymous letter writers frequently print their missives in block letters thereby expecting to foil recognition. The hand writing expert, given their real hand writing, can identify the block letters at almost a single microscopic glance. It was also stated that almost invariably the anonymous letter writer has a criminal record or criminal tendencies. He is never normal.

I once wrote an anonymous letter to the editor of the Gallipolis (O.) Journal, suggesting that the paper for that week had never been so newsworthy and breezy. That had been my first week as "the" reporter. The next day when I arrived in the office I looked up from his pile of proofs, peered over his glasses, and remarked, "I got your letter." He never mentioned it again—and that cured me of anonymity.

That old story of the excited gentleman calling to the owner of the barking dog: "Call off your dog or I'll knock his head off," has a sequel in another excited gentleman at a theatre box office shouting: "If you think you can sit me behind a post I'm a damn fool for $5.85!"

Perhaps this places him. He is the type who swashily cleans his teeth with a finger behind a napkin in a restaurant. "New York," he said, ripping a band from an expensive cigar. "Is a town of easy marks. All you have to do is to brush up on etiquette and act refined." And that is a true incident.

George White probably has more fun out of the theatrical business than any producer. He loves to sell tickets and is usually in the box office at night. Sometimes he takes in tickets at the door. Other times he leads the orchestra or ushers downstairs or in the balcony. Indeed, he is all over the theatre—winding up as an actual performer in a dance number. White is only a few years removed from those happy days when all Broadway knew him as "Swift, the Messenger Boy." In those hallowed hours he was the nimblest back and winger along the street, and with a death message marked "Rush" would stop long enough to execute a neat jig for pitched pennies. Only Broadway could produce his like, and that is perhaps why he is one of its most interesting figures.

There seems to be fewer picturesque characters in the evening parade on Fifth Avenue these days. No sartorial iconoclasts like Caruso, with a red feather in his hat and a cane over his shoulder, military fashion. Or the hairless and handsome man in white who walked in the snow and rain.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Research Bureau Activities.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 7.—Changing productivity is the subject of a new survey that has just been undertaken by the National Bureau of Economic Research and the organization is seeking the co-operation of public-spirited industrial executives throughout the country.

The object of the survey is to ascertain as accurately as possible, for the various industries and processes, the typical number of units of products turned out for each hour of labor applied, and to compare the output at the present time with the output at earlier periods. In other words, the country is to be informed whether labor is producing more or less than it was 19, 29, or 39 years ago—how much industry has been speeded up, if at all.

Although not one of the announced objects of the survey it is inevitable that it will show whether there is any sound basis for the charge frequently made that labor unions have deliberately retarded production.

Factory executives who have records, covering all or any part of the past 20 years, which they believe would enable a computation to be made of the units of product per hour of labor, are requested to communicate with the Bureau, indicating briefly the nature of the information they have. Arrangements will then be made to have a representative of the Bureau visit the plant. There will be no expense to the informant, the statistical analysis of the records of the individual plant will be made available to the executives of the establishment involved; for checking and for such private use as they may wish to make of it, and none of the information tion secured will be used in such a way as to enable outsiders to identify any establishment in connection with the facts concerning it.

Comparable Products.

It is realized, it is stated, that for any industry, and even for a single establishment, it is difficult to express output in units that are strictly comparable. The most useful comparisons will be those expressed in terms which are comparable throughout an industry. However, it is expected that there will be many cases where, for a given plant, it is possible to show significant changes in the labor required for a product which is comparable in character for the plant in question, though it might not be comparable with the product of other establishments in the same general industry.

So far as possible, comparisons will be made in terms of the labor per unit of finished product, but it is recognized that it will often be of large interest, particularly where the finished product is of a non-comparable type, to make comparisons of the changes in the labor required in particular processes or combinations of processes.

For example, it may not be feasible to make reliable comparisons of the amount of labor required to erect a finished dwelling, but it may prove practicable to ascertain, within a reasonable degree of accuracy, the changes in the labor required to move 1,000 cubic yards of earth in making excavation for dwellings, or the labor required to lay 1,000 bricks.

To aid in interpreting the significance of observed changes in output, an effort will be made to ascertain the nature of concurrent changes which have been made in equipment, type of labor employed, methods of wage payments, or any other modification of practice which appears as likely to have had an appreciable influence on output. This inquiry into concurrent changes will delve into those details of processes or other phases which are of present importance and of a more or less confidential nature, it is promised, but will be concerned rather with the treatment of past changes in terms sufficiently general to hazard no business secrets.

Professor Harry Jerome, professor of economics in the University of Wisconsin in charge of instruction in economic statistics, will have general supervision of the survey. It is announced, and inquiries should be addressed to him at 313 Sterling Hall, Madison, Wisconsin.

Surveys That Have Been Made. Since the Bureau of Economic Research was organized seven years ago it has made a number of studies of great importance in their bearing on economic, social, and industrial problems. The first task it undertook was to determine the size and distribution of the income produced and consumed by the American people. The findings in this investigation were published in two volumes entitled Income in the United States, Its Amount and Distribution, 1909-1919, and later a supplementary volume was issued under the title Distribution of Income by States in 1919. This was followed by a more elaborate study and the Bureau has also published tentative estimates of income to and including the year 1926. When the country was in the throes of the post-war business depression in 1921, Secretary Hoover, as chairman of President Harding's Conference on Unemployment, called on the Bureau to prepare a report on the number of persons out of employment, the causes of the depression, and methods of preventing or alleviating the evils of cyclical unemployment. Six months were devoted to this study, the results of which were published under the titles Business Cycles and Unemployment and Employment, Hours, and Earnings in Prosperity and Depression.

Other publications of the Bureau include a study of the varying membership of trade unions from year to year, entitled The Growth of American Trade Unions; the first of a series of reports on business cycles entitled Business Annals, and a study of the effect of immigration and emigration upon the supply of labor, called Immigration and Business Cycles.

Other studies in press or in progress, it is announced, include additional volumes on the business cycle, a study of the labor market, an investigation of bond yields and interest rates, an analysis of the relations between the price movements of individual commodities and of groups of commodities since 1890, a test study in New Haven of contributions to philanthropic and religious organizations, an analysis of immigration statistics for all countries which have recorded figures of immigration, and an inquiry into the effect of immigration restriction upon the use of labor-saving machinery.

This national research organization is not conducted for profit and every precaution is taken to guard against its being used as an agency of propaganda. No report can be published without the approval of the directors of whom there are 21, representing universities, learned and scientific societies, financial, industrial, agricultural, commercial, labor, and technical organizations. It is financed by contributions from groups and individuals who are interested in impartial research.

Millions of Families Depend on Dr. Caldwell's Prescription

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not at great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy, intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and if you will once start using it you will always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

Dr. B. Caldwell, M.D.
AT AGE 83

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. # Sally's Shoulders by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN" "MONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

Chapter LII.

SALLY saw that she was trembling with fury or some other powerful excitement. She was actually shaking all over as if she had a chill.

But no fever could have painted her cheeks more scarlet or lit brighter flames in her eyes.

"What on earth has happened?" Sally asked, wondering what John Nye could have done to make Millie look as she was looking now.

Suddenly she burst into tears.

"The men are all alike," she sobbed out, and then choked up for a moment.

Sally had heard her say exactly that thing, two or three times before, when she had quit her job and walked out of an office.

Always her story had been the same story—that some man or other had "got fresh" or "acted fresh" with her.

And now she was saying that all the men were alike. Did that mean that John Nye, had "got fresh" and "acted smart?" Sally wondered, and as she wondered, that dull ache in her heart seemed to become more painful than ever—like an old wound.

"John Nye's no better than anyone of the rest of them—Bursall or Juddkins, or any of the rest!" Millie finished on a long-drawn sobbing breath.

And, looking the very picture of injured innocence, in spite of her too-thin, too-gay, too-short clothes, she got up from her chair and went slowly up the stairs.

"Nice thing, isn't it?" asked Sally.

indignantly of Mabel, when the sound of Millie's door closing and the key turning in the lock came down to them through the quiet house.

"Yes, but is it true?" asked Mabel with a little smile that said whole volumes. "If Millie got peevish because John Nye made love to her the way Bursall at our office used to, it's the first time in her life she ever did get peevish about a man making love to her. . . . So just paste that in your hat!"

Sally eyed her thoughtfully.

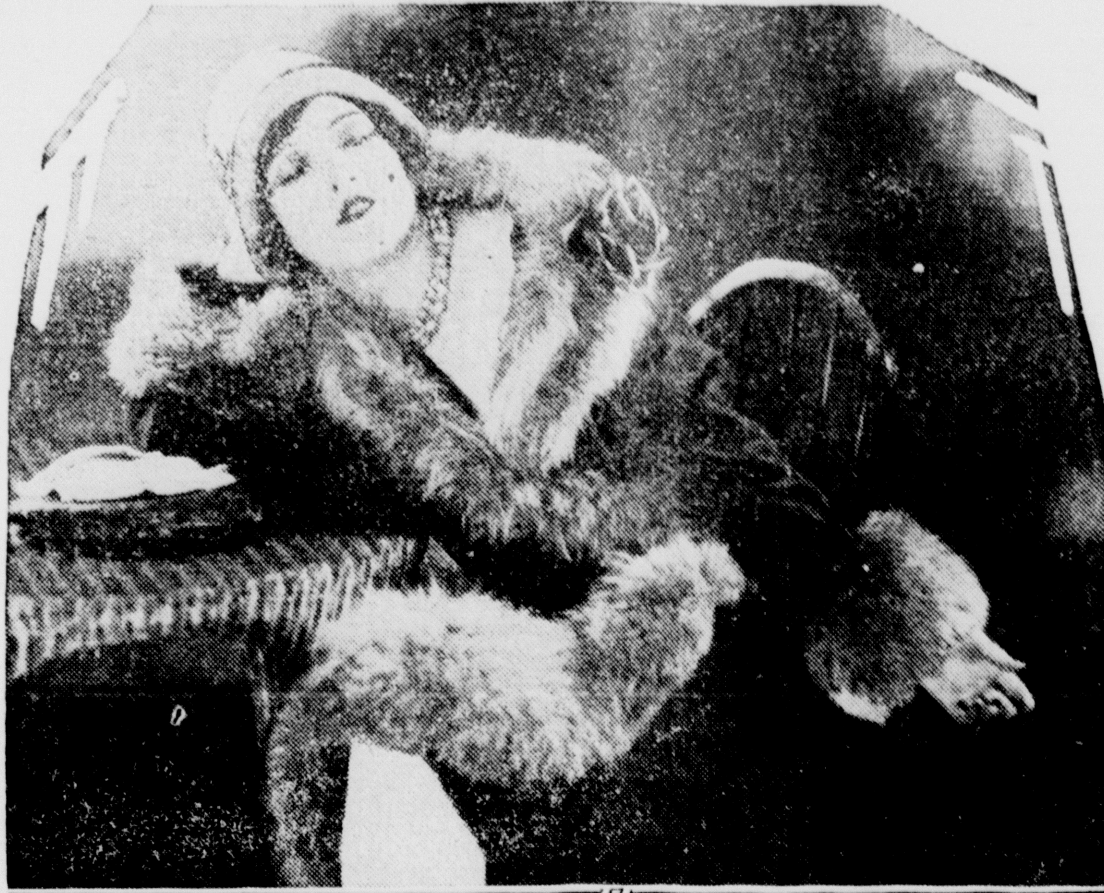

After all, Mabel knew Millie better than she herself knew her. She had worked with her day in and day out for a long time—and the pair of them had run around together for months, after office hours.

"I tell you, Millie never walked out of Nye's office because he showed her that he was crazy about her," Mabel went on as she followed Sally back to her kitchen. "Take it from me, she walked out on him for some reason that she's not telling us old kid! I'm going to find out about it, though, if it takes me a year!"

Early in the afternoon, while Millie was sleeping upstairs, she came down to the kitchen where Sally and Aunt Em were cutting up chickens and covering them with flour for frying.

She was dressed for the street, and her hair was curled. Her face was rouged, and a strong smell of violet water came from her as she stood in the doorway.

"Where are you going, instead of "The men are all alike," she waited.

Sally had very little.

But what she did say was to the point, and she said it with a certain bitterness that was unlike her.

"Well, work for him if you want to," she told Mabel, not looking up from the napkins she was ironing.

But it was only a Western Union girl to read a telegram from Mrs. Jerome: "Send me a hundred dollars right way, and get a room ready for your father; bringing him home right away."

"Mother."

Twirls 38 Times on Toe.

The ballet dancing record for twirling one toe was set by accident in London recently. Vera Nouchkova, the Russian ballet star, was to have emulated five other famous prima ballerinas by twirling 32 times.

She started a few bars of music too soon, and the result was that she turned on her toe 38 times, which is believed to be a record.

staying at home and looking after your baby?" Aunt Em snapped at her.

Aunt Em had no earthly use for Mabel, and made no secret of the fact.

"I'm going down town for a job," Mabel snapped back at her.

Then she turned to Sally. "Darling, you'll look after my brat while I'm gone, won't you?" she asked.

Mabel adored her child, even if she called it her brat, and did not know how to take care of it.

"You're a fool to take over her work the way you do," said Aunt Em when she was gone. "She has no business going to work in an office now, when she has a little new baby—and you haven't any time to look after that baby." Aunt Em knew nothing about Beau's Saturday night escapade, and about Mabel's determination to have a home of her own for him to support.

Sally did not enlighten her now.

"Oh, she may as well work as hang around here doing nothing all day," was all she said to her aunt, and they let it go at that. They never talked much when they were working.

That night Mabel came home with the astounding news that she was taking Millie's position in John Nye's office.

She did not tell Millie about it.

And she was not on speaking terms with her Don Juan husband so she did not mention it to him.

But she told Sally and Aunt Em about it proudly, coming straight through the house to them.

Aunt Em had nothing to say, and

"but don't do any little extra things for him. He'll only make fun of you if you do."

"What do you mean?" asked Mabel, plainly puzzled. "I thought you were the Jane who used to get lunch for old Peevey and work Sundays, and do all such foolishness."

Sally nodded briefly. "I am that very Jane," she answered, borrowing Mabel's slang. "That's why I can give you the advice I am giving now."

Mabel shrugged her shoulders. "I don't know. He said some awfully nice things about the work you did for him, this afternoon," said she, and went up stairs with the warmed milk bottle that Sally thrust into her hands.

The next morning at 7:45 Mabel started off for the street car and John Nye's office.

Beau rolled away in his red car a half hour later, and Millie stayed in bed, where she was having a glorious sleep. She had announced the night before that she would have all her meals in bed that day, and enjoy a well-earned rest, herself.

At 5 that afternoon the telephone rang, and Sally answered it.

"Hello!" said a shrill young feminine voice. "Is Bud Jerome there?"

Some queer instinct telegraphed to Sally and told her that the high little voice belonged to the mysterious "cutie" who had been with Beau on the Saturday night party that had turned out so badly for him and for Mabel, not to mention his red automobile.

"No, he's not," she answered, wondering why the girl called Beau "Bud."

"But I expect him very soon," she added, politely.

"Who's this?" asked the voice. It was a pert common voice.

"His sister."

"Well," the voice came again after a pause, "I'll be over there right away. I want to see him."

And before Sally had time to ask her not to come, she had hung up the receiver with a smart click.

Sally glanced at the grandfather clock that ticked solemnly in a dusky corner of Aunt Em's hall.

It was four minutes after 5. Beau would be home in about 45 minutes, and Mabel would arrive 15 minutes after him, she figured. . . . And Mabel must not see the girl!

She turned and rushed upstairs to get dressed. "I'll have to see her when she comes," she thought anxiously, "and get rid of her before Mabey gets home!"

Once more the telephone rang, and she ran down stairs to answer it, hoping that by some lucky chance it might be Beau's lady love again.

TO THE VOTERS OF EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO

ON TUESDAY you will be given an opportunity to vote on the councilmanic ordinance which bans the sale and use of Fireworks in our city forever.

BY ALL MEANS You should vote NO on this ordinance.

THE Glorious Fourth has been properly celebrated with Fireworks since the founding of this nation. And why not? What event in American History or in the history of the world has more significance than Our Declaration of Independence. It is America's one real holiday. True folks, some folks lacking an early American background do not fully realize the necessity of a noisy celebration nor can they appreciate its meaning, but real red blooded Americans who have been taught in their youth, what our forefathers suffered to found America, treasure these traditions.

IN BANNING Fireworks you are sending our people out of East Liverpool on July 4th. Because Americans insist on celebrating and with the sale of fireworks unlimited in our neighboring towns we will have in East Liverpool a deserted city on the fourth. Those opposed to fireworks fail to offer a substitute. There is none. They do not sponsor any celebration of any other nature. Their's is not constructive criticism. Halloween our people had to go to Wells-ville to celebrate, Armistice day they will have to go to Lisbon, July fourth they will have to go too—if you do not vote NO.

EAST LIVERPOOL years ago banned the large and dangerous crackers that causing the deaths and injuries in other towns. East Liverpool never had a fatality from fireworks since this ban was placed in force.

VOTERS GIVE YOUR CHILDREN THE SAME HARMLESS PLEASURE YOU ENJOYED IN YOUR YOUTH. KEEP EAST LIVERPOOL FOLKS AT HOME NEXT JULY FOURTH.

Undefeated Teams Hang To Records

Washington Alone Fails to Come Back; Tie Games Numerous.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—After giving due consideration to the fullness of those tie scores involving the unbeaten teams of Notre Dame and Minnesota and Pittsburgh and W. and J., when a victory either way would have served the best interests of the figure filberts, the writer feels impelled to paraphrase Longfellow, which I'll admit is going not to an extreme but quite beyond the utmost. Anyway, the fall comes out of Henry when I say that those tied are best described as "something attempted, nothing done to earn a night's repose."

However, the entire covey of undefeated entries—Notre Dame, Minnesota, Pitt, W. and J., Washington, Georgia, Illinois, Princeton, New York University and Tennessee—went for a ride on Saturday and Washington was the only one that didn't come back with the driver.

Those Pesky Ties.

Still, something was proved out on the coast on Saturday and that is more than can be said of the two big games in the middle west and east. Minnesota didn't get that tie until the dying minutes of the game and then only on what Rockne explains as a mix-up in signals that caused a fumble; yet, on the run of the play, the Gophers would seem to have been in a commanding position more times than Notre Dame.

So was the Pitt-W. and J. game, which apparently saw the former out-rush its opponent but not outscore it. Unfortunately, the pay off window is right at the score board.

As for the other good ones—and, as far as I am concerned, these include defeated as well as undefeated outfits—Georgia proceeded nearer the southern title by winning readily from Florida; Illinois made it three straight in the big conference at the expense of Iowa; Nebraska gave evidence of where the real strength lies in the Missouri Valley by running up 47 points on Kansas, and Princeton scored a surprisingly easy victory over Ohio State.

Tigers Booked.

With only the Yale game before them, this victory automatically advances the unbeaten Tigers to my top rank of teams. At the same time, Southern Methodist drops a flight because of its defeat by Texas Aggies, 39 to 13. The Methodists, it seems, keep scoring but so does the other fellow and at least twice this year.

IF YOUR STOMACH TORMENTS YOU

Do this for Quick Relief

A great deal of digestive suffering is due to excess stomach acid which causes heartburn, flatulence, stomach pain and other distressing symptoms. By taking "Pape's Diapiesin" after eating or when pain is felt you not only remove the cause of the trouble and instantly neutralize the harmful acid, but your digestive organs are soothed, healed and strengthened in a wonderful way, and normal healthy digestion results.

Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions recommend "Pape's Diapiesin." "Pape's Diapiesin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and food corrective, yet it costs only 60 cents a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapiesin" at once and recapture the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion.

the latter has forgot to stop in time.

However, that other southern entry, Tennessee, kept right on going and, if it gets by Vanderbilt next Saturday, will contest Georgia to the last syllable for the southern championship. Both Vandy and Georgia Tech had a portrait but finished in a scoreless tie. Meanwhile, Texas one-pointed Baylor out of a decision.

Yale and Army, one-defeat teams still are with the front-runners, won impressively. Yale scored 30 points on Maryland, all of them in the first half, and the cadets ran up 45 on Franklin and Marshall for a total of more than eighty in their last two games.

Poor Old Harvard.

Penn State, another eastern leader, didn't look so hot in being held to 13 points by George Washington. Which brings us to poignant pass wherein must be related the fact that Harvard, brave, old Harvard, blew another. This time, Pennsylvania, defeated successfully by Penn State, Chicago and the Navy, used the hidden ball instead of the hidden touchdown and scored by 24 to 0, leaving Harvard nothing except Dr. Eliot's five foot shelf.

J. T. Croxall, Dr. Collin F. Kinsey and L. A. Wallover stand for no intimidation of teachers.

"Short Cut" Open

ture of $800,000 although before the improvement is completed into Clinton next year more than $1,000,000 will have been invested in the job.

Story of Lincoln Way Movement. East Liverpool's interest in the Lincoln highway started in 1913 shortly after an association had been formed at Detroit for the purpose of working for the construction of a hard surfaced road which would connect the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

Good roads enthusiasts went to Detroit to urge the routing of the road through East Liverpool. Later the late A. R. Pardington, vice president, and H. C. Ostermann, also deceased, visited East Liverpool, and after going over the ground decided that the highway should pass through this city. The route as tentatively selected was Lisbon street to Fifth and Market streets. From that point, however, the route was not fixed, the decision being left with Frank Swaney who was named district consul.

Swaney chose the route into Pittsburgh which led through Chester and Frankfort, but officers of the association failed to accept his recommendation, believing the improvement of this road too difficult. Swaney then went over the road through Midland, Beaver and Sewickley which was later designated as the route.

From the beginning Mr. Swaney believed that a more direct route between Pittsburgh and East Liverpool would eventually be necessary. The road up the river passed through a score or more cities and towns whose congestion would be a difficult proposition to overcome.

Those who inspected the visionary route between Laughlin's Corners and Clinton, declared that the cost of building such a road would be enormous and that the route would not be feasible. The Chamber of Commerce became interested in the highway and a description, with a small map showing the route, was prepared. Ten thousand copies of this pamphlet were printed and sent to business firms, manufacturers, municipal and county officers and the Pennsylvania state highway department. Much favorable comment resulted.

Pennsylvania Co-operates. Members of the highway committee of the Chamber of Commerce accompanied by Secretary H. B. Barth, next went to Pittsburgh where they arranged for a visit of Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce members to East Liverpool. The visitors were entertained at a luncheon at the Country club. Plans for connecting Pittsburgh and East Liverpool by a short road were discussed and before adjournment both bodies were pledged for the construction of an "air line" between the two cities.

A bill was prepared and sent to the Pennsylvania legislature calling for the improvement of this road. However, opposition developed and passage was blocked. Another joint meeting between East Liverpool and Pittsburgh chambers was held and at the next session of the Pennsylvania legislature an act, which made every provision for routing engineering and financing of this new highway, was approved.

On January 5, 1926, representatives of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce and the Chester Boosters' club met with officials of the West Virginia State Highway department and the governor of West Virginia to ask for the reconstruction of the road between Chester and the state line. Favorable action was promised by West Virginia.

Governor Howard Gore and members of the highway department visited Chester and viewed the scene of the improvement. Governor Gore later promised that West Virginia would build a highway between Chester and the state line which would be a model for the remainder of the road.

Construction work on the West Virginia section was started in December, 1926, and is now practically completed, the grading work costing approximately $110,000. Braham & Edwards, Clarksburg, were the contractors. The road follows a different course from that traversed by the old highway. To eliminate curves and obtain better grades, the contractors graded through two hills. In one of these there is a cut 65 feet deep, the other a little less. The new road reduces the distance between Chester and the state line by about half a mile.

West Virginia Improvement. The West Virginia section is to be surfaced with concrete 18 feet in width next year. But in order that it might be open for winter travel the state spent $10,000 to construct a curbed surface which makes the road almost as smooth as if it were surfaced. The job in Pennsylvania was let in two contracts, one beginning at Laughlin's Corners and extending in the direction of Clinton for about five and one-half miles; the other starting where the first ended and connecting with the old road in Allegheny county about two and one-half miles from Clinton. This job was about six and one-half miles long.

H. C. Bunce, Rhaca, N. Y., was awarded the contract for the improvement starting at Laughlin's Corners upon a bid which totaled about $300,000. J. Lee Plummer, Johnstown, Pa., was given the other job, upon a bid of about $500,000 which included one large bridge and five other smaller spans.

The two contractors sought to rush the improvement and at one time six steam shovels were working at various points along the new road. Because of the nature of the land many large cuts were necessary and at other places thousands of cubic yards of earth were required to make fills. Much of the road, on the Plummer job especially, was through swampy, marshy ground. Little concrete was poured last year, the fills being allowed to settle during the winter.

Material for the Bunce job was hauled from Chester and stored at Laughlin's Corner where it was "batched" for the concrete mixer. Plummer secured deliveries of sand, gravel, cement and slag at a rail head about four miles from Clinton. His haul was a little longer than that on the Bunce job.

Bunce finished his part of the road about two months ago when it was thrown open to traffic. The Plummer company had planned to open its part of the road about a month ago, but the slips made it necessary to keep it closed until the obstructions could be removed.

Delegation Inspects Highway. The road must be closed again next spring when West Virginia surfaces the road between Chester and the state line. While this work is being done Pennsylvania will resurface the old macadam road from the end of the new improvement into Clinton. This road was originally water-bound macadam and was damaged during the summer by heavily loaded trucks hauling material to the Plummer job. Pennsylvania eventually plans to rebuild this road for its entire length into Pittsburgh.

A delegation from East Liverpool went over the new highway last week. The group included Patrick McNeil, R. J. McElvay, A. E. Harris, Charles Kelly, John Moore and E. G. Sturgis of the Chamber of Commerce committee; Secretary H. B. Barth of the Chamber of Commerce; Lincoln Highway Consul Frank Swaney and a party of newspapermen and photographers. J. L. Herber, district highway engineer, Pittsburgh, has advised Secretary Barth of the Chamber of Commerce that the road will be kept open during the winter months, although motorists are urged to drive carefully.

Pennsylvania state highway department men are now erecting guard railings along the Bunce job. This work cannot be undertaken on the Plummer section of the improvement until next spring.

Because of the work which will be started in the spring travel over the new highway will not reach its peak through here until 1929. The highway has opened up a territory which will bring thousands of dollars into the East Liverpool business district every year. Heretofore much of the shopping by residents in the Clinton district has been going to Pittsburgh, but now with the opening of the new road it will come into Ohio, business men believe.

Three Rivals Confident. Both Brown and Mayor Ralph Benedum, Democratic nominee, were confident of victory on the eve of the election. John R. Weber, Independent, also said he expected to win.

Last-minute interest in the mayoralty will have a tendency to bring the voters to the polls, Hilbert said.

Voters will have their last opportunity to qualify for the election between 5 and 9 o'clock tonight, when registrars will meet in the city's 22 polling precincts to issue and accept transfers.

prone them. The defense has the same privilege in that respect as the prosecution.

Not a single Burns man approached a juror or spoke to him, or communicated with him in any way. If there is any evidence any of our operatives did so, we will gladly assist in sending him to the penitentiary. Our agents were honest and sincere."

Complaint Signed by Long.

On the basis of an affidavit made by William Long, one of the Burns operatives, the complaint set forth that this government agent was seen talking to a juror for 20 minutes at the Potomac flying field while the trial was in progress.

This complaint and affidavit, Burns told newspapermen, had been in the hands of Justice Siddons since last Friday.

Justice Siddons, however, denied he had received the Burns complaint. Informed of this denial, both Burns and Charles C. Ruddy, manager of the Burns' Washington agency, still insisted that it had been filed.

Burns refused to name the government agent who was mentioned in the affidavit, or to state the nature of his government position.

"Get it from the court," said Burns. Waives All Immunity.

The report of Long set forth that while he was trailing one of the jurors another automobile came in between him and the man he had under surveillance. The juror went to his home and the other car went on, Long first taking its license number.

Safeguard Our Homes and Factories

SOME OF THE MANY REASONS WHY WE SHOULD VOTE "YES" TO INCREASE THE EFFICIENCY OF OUR FIRE DEPARTMENT TO PREVENT LOSS OF LIFE, HOMES AND FACTORIES.

Should the industrial plant in which you are interested or employed burn down, it would take months to rebuild and you would be out of employment during the period of its reconstruction.

Fifteen fire insurance companies that have been doing business in our city for years, have withdrawn and other companies are contemplating withdrawal and will do so if our fire fighting facilities are not materially increased.

Our Fire Department has been very much undermanned since the two-platoon system was installed and, in addition, eight men were dismissed because of lack of funds.

Your present fire force is thirteen men, consisting of a chief, assistant chief and eleven firemen.

You have three companies, the Central, East End, and Northside Departments. The force is divided equally in day and night shifts. Central Department has four men on one shift and three on the other; East End and Northside Departments have one man on each shift. You can see that both your East End and Northside Departments could not lay a line of hose until the Central Company arrived, unless some citizens volunteered their services.

If each station were manned with sufficient force it would be necessary to leave its section only on second call. East Liverpool in 1925 stood third in fire losses in the United States with a ratio of $17.50 per capita, or about $500,000.00; and again in 1926 we were eleventh with a per capita loss of $9.64, or about $250,000.00.

The annual per capita fire loss in Europe is 33c. If our present fire losses continue it will mean further increases in insurance rates.

DO YOU KNOW—

That it is your money that is thus wasted, not, as some people imagine, the insurance companies' money?

That the insurance companies are simply intermediaries, collecting from the masses comparatively small amounts known as "premiums," which they pay, in more or less large sums, to those who have fires?

That as long as the fire losses are exorbitantly heavy the insurance premiums must be correspondingly high?

Do your part to stop the enormous destruction of property by fire by placing your X mark in the "YES" column, as indicated on the sample ballot shown above.

H. C. WALTER IS AUTO SMITHY

A genuine automobile "blacksmith"—that's H. C. Walter, who operates this unique shop at 119 East Church alley.

And why not an auto "smithy"? Don't the things get balky once in a while, get their "backs up," buck into a telephone pole, a tree, or the nearest automobile?

The man who experiences a collision with another machine, or with some other object, first visions mentally, if no one is hurt, what it's going to cost him for replacement, to put his machine back in running order.

The service of a shop like Walter's has done much to pare these costs to the bone.

A badly bent disc wheel, for instance, means nothing more than a little job for the auto smith. If they are not actually bent to the breaking point, Walter's shop can fix them up again.

Straightening bent axles is, of course, a comparatively easy task at Walter's as are a majority of the many other minor jobs in this line.

Besides these things Walter is equipped in tools and knowledge of the business in general auto blacksmithing.

DAY FAN RADIO AT BONJOUR'S

The first shop in Chester to advertise radio, the oldest wall paper house in Hancock county, the oldest contracting firm in papering and painting, and a union shop—these qualifications, without further embellishment, should be sufficient to recommend the E. S. Bonjour hardware—wall paper—paint—radio shop to people of Chester and vicinity.

Bonjour handles the Day-Fan radio and recommends it highly to the radio public.

Just ask the "fan" who owns one and he'll do the same. Bonjour also is equipped to sell the Steinlite and other electric radios as well as equipment that might be needed.

Bonjour handles a complete line of wall papers to meet varying needs and also does first-class contracting work in this line, as well as painting. He lays claim to the distinction of operating the oldest wall paper and painting contracting firm in Chester.

It would be especially timely now to inspect Bonjour's bargains in gas and heating stoves. We won't have much more warm weather.

YOUR ROOF IN SHAPE FOR SNOW?

How's your roof? If it isn't all that it should be, you've probably had an opportunity before now to know the answer to that question, as a result of last week's rains.

And if there's something wrong with it, now's the time, before winter sets in, to think about replacing it, whether it's that old leaky roof on the chicken house, the garage, or, perhaps your own home.

The Newell Lumber company, at Newell, W. Va., handles the well-known Johns Manville asbestos shingles, slate surface shingles and roll roofing, any of which dispose of your roofing problem, if you have any, for indefinite years.

No matter what your requirements are, it will pay you to get in touch with Newell Lumber company officials. They will be glad to provide you estimates on any kind of job, large or small.

It won't be long now—before the snow begins to fly and pile up in the front yard and on the roof and then when it melts—well, if there are any little leaky places up there, the water is going to come through. Better think about it now.

FIND ECONOMY AT OHIO LUNCH

The Ohio lunch, conveniently located in Washington street, just a half block off Fifth, is the place where you get mansized meals at short-order prices.

The Ohio Lunch is not a "fancy" establishment where overhead costs come out of the diners' checks.

This sort of restaurant is all right for the purpose it serves.

But all of the quality at the Ohio Lunch is packed into the food it serves and a minimum of overhead expenses is productive of savings on the customers' end of the line.

Busy people come here to eat—banker, laborer, professional man and all.

They have little time to waste. They must be served immediately. This they get at the Ohio Lunch and they are satisfied. They come back every day.

Fresh foods, prepared the way the Ohio's patrons like them, attract them day after day. And every effort is made to achieve the utmost in cleanliness. Service of this kind merits its patronage.

WOLF'S A. A. A. AIDS AUTOISTS

While it never pays to look for trouble (inasmuch as you generally find it) it is hard to contradict the fact that it's good policy to be equipped to meet trouble if it gets you in spite of your precautions.

When he starts out on the open road every motorist figures he'll get safely back to the home port, but often he doesn't. Perhaps an unlooked for break in some part of the machine's intricate mechanism will tie him up on the road some place; perhaps an unavoidable collision that tears off a wheel or in other ways incapacitates the operation of the car.

In Chester it's Wolf's Central garage at Sixth street and Carolina avenue. Wolf operates a complete wrecking service. With the opening of the new road to Pittsburgh, there's bound to be more travel through West Virginia. If you ever need such service while traveling in that direction, you can depend on Wolf.

Wolf also operates a general repairing and serving shop. Raybestos or Greylock lining, as desired, are used on brake lining jobs. All other materials used in repair work, too, are up to the same high standard. Wolf's is a good place to stop for gas, oil, or accessory needs before "hopping off" across country.

STEEL ROOFING FOR POTTERY

Taylor, Smith & Taylor Company Decide on Safety Measure.

The Taylor, Smith & Taylor Pottery company, which plant suffered a $15,000 fire a week ago yesterday is replacing the frame roofs over the bisque and glaze kilns sheds with roofs of metal construction. Insurance adjusters, who arrived in Chester last week to fix the amount of damage, expressed the opinion that the blaze had been started has been started from the heat of the bisque kiln which was in the process of firing for the first time. While a metal roof was being constructed over that section of the plant which was damaged by fire the plant owners also decided, as a safety measure, to replace the frame roof over the new glaze kiln at the same time.

Ware, which was being put through the bisque kiln at the time of the blaze was not damaged by water which was poured on the kiln while firemen were fighting the blaze. No damage was suffered by the kiln. The company hopes to resume operations at the plant by the latter part of the month.

WEIRTON BUILDING MILL HOSPITAL

The new emergency hospital which will occupy the large building on Pennsylvania avenue, formerly used by the engineering department of the Weirton Steel company, is being rushed to completion and will be ready to occupy on December first, according to announcement on Saturday.

The building will also be used as an employment office with a department for physical examination and also for emergency hospital work. It will be under the supervision of Dr. F. B. Harrington, who has had charge of this department for the Weirton Steel company for the past six years. Dr. Harrington will have as staff of six trained nurses who will assist in caring for the sick and injured employees of the steel company. In the new quarters the hospital authorities will have much more room and equipment available to take care of increasing activities not only with the company but for the community in general, which the hospital has served in the past.

DIVORCE CASES CLIMB IN STATE

West Virginia's 18,275 marriage recorded in 1926 were equivalent to 10.3 marriages for each 1,000 estimated population and 1,938 divorces in the same year figured by 1.2 per 1,000 population. It appears from statistics made public today by the department of commerce for the country and for the separate states. The percentage of increase from 17,724 marriages in 1925, however, fell below the percent of increase from the 1,918 divorces in that year, the percent in case of the marriages being 31 and in the case of divorces 4.2. In addition to the divorces recorded for 1926 there were 44 pending.

The state's divorce rate fell comfortably below the 1.54 per thousand population, which was the average for the country, and 28 of the states showed higher proportion of divorces than West Virginia, with Nevada far in the lead with 13.19 per thousand. The West Virginia rate, however, was considerably above the low records with the District of Columbia showing only 0.18 and New York only 0.41 per thousand. Another interesting comparison brought out that two of the states bordering on West Virginia had virtually the same rate as the Mountain State, these proportions for Maryland and Virginia each being 1.19 per thousand population.

In the marriage records West Virginia's 10.9 was slightly below the 10.26 per thousand average for the country. It was far below the 21.6 figure for Florida but considerably above the low record of 4.6 for Delaware.

East Liverpool today in the interests of a movement which he launched a few years ago for world peace. Archer has formed an organization known as the "World Peace Bureau," the purpose of which is to establish a confederacy of nations, working for the establishment of international peace. The organization, according to Archer, goes further than the League of Nations. It is a union of nations, he declares, with power to enforce its laws on sea and land.

He plans to spend a week here during which time he will seek the co-operation of manufacturers and bankers. More than 1,000 newspapers and thousands of manufacturers and captains of industry have endorsed the movement, according to Archer.

Plans are now under way for a convention of backers of the peace plan, Archer said.

East Liverpool And Salem Battle To Scoreless Tie In Mud SATURDAY GAMES FAIL TO CLEAR UP BIG 10 TITLE RACE SQUADS POWERLESS ON GUMMY GRIDIRON

Field Conditions Rob Game of Thrills; Rival Leaders Resort to Punting; Blue Has Three First Downs, Salem One.

Columbiana county scholastic football race was still in question today as a result of the no count mud battle staged Saturday at Patterson Field between East Liverpool and Salem.

Probably 3,500 fans, including approximately 500 from the Quaker City, shivered through an hour and a half of atrocious football weather as the rival football teams slithered through mud and water that reached to the tops of their cleated shoes.

With Patterson Field in the worst condition that it has ever been for a football game, both teams' offensive power was reduced to a minimum, although followers of the Blue will always wonder whether Kirkham could have plowed the Red line for a touchdown at the close of the first half, with the ball on the Salem four-yard line, and nine second of play remaining.

Reeling off a first down on punches, the Blue put the ball within the five-yard line. Kirkham, who was calling signals, knew that the half was near the closing point. He took a chance at a forward pass and it failed, the ball coming back to the 20-yard line where Salem reeled off one play.

If the Blue backfield could have negotiated four yards in one play in those nine seconds, they would have been successful, but it is doubtful whether the time would have lasted for two plays.

In the first half of the opening period, the Red and White had its opportunity and could do nothing with it.

After the kickoff to Salem, Slinger, punter back and a succession of East Liverpool fumbles gave the visitors their golden chance. Recovering a fumble on the five-yard line, Salem plunked the line four times and failed to make the distance, Kirkham later punting out of danger.

In that moment of danger, the Blue forwards dug in and repulsed the threatening attack of the Springer eleven successfully.

Four times were the sticks moved for first downs, this telling the story of the afternoon's offensive play.

Harris's eleven registered three first downs on Salem's end.

After Salem's threatening gesture in the opening period, the game developed into a punting battle, with Kirkham having an edge in clean cut

Wellsville Defeated at Dover, 19-0

Two Orange Backfield Stars Watch Game From Bench.

DOVER, Nov. 7.—With Halfback Calhoun and Fullback Eddie Irons watching the game from the bench as a result of injuries in the Salem game a week ago, Wellsville high bowed to Dover, 19 to 0 here Saturday.

One touchdown in the second quarter and two in the final period represented the total scoring.

The Orange, lacking the offensive strength that ordinarily is supplied by Calhoun and Irons, failed to seriously threaten the Dover goal but developed a strong defensive attack.

The Dover eleven registered four first downs against the visitors' three.

A Wellsville fumble that Funkhouser recovered on the Wellsville 18 yard line paved the way for the first Dover touchdown in the second period. Belter passed to Andreas, putting the ball a few feet away from the Orange line and Nigro carried it over on a line plunge. A pass accounted for the additional point.

Dover reached its peak strength in the final quarter, displaying a powerful running and plunging attack, featured by the rushes of Quarterback Belter. A series of gains took the ball to the five-yard line and Belter went over.

The third touchdown followed a long forward pass from Belter to Andreas.

Roepke Comes Up On East's Point Leader

Lane, Dartmouth Star, Continues as Pacesetter.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Myles Lane, of Dartmouth, today continued to hold his long lead in the east's individual scoring race.

As the race for eastern grid honors nears the end, Lane's superiority in the individual scoring department will probably prove with it. The brilliant green halfback has been held to a single point in the last two games Dartmouth played against Yale and Brown. As a result, Captain Roepke, of Penn State, is close on his heels.

Wittmer, by scoring a trio of touchdowns against Ohio State last Saturday, is also threatening Lane's crown. He has a total of 64 points.

The fourteen leaders in point gaining among eastern teams follows:

HOPPE, REISELT TO PLAY RETURN

Wierton Is Toppled By Chester Drives

Wilde's Eleven Continues March to Hancock County Title in 13-0 Victory Over Steel Town Squad.

CHESTER high brushed another tough opponent aside in their march for the Hancock county championship when they took Wierton high over by the score of 13 to 0 Saturday at Smith Field.

It was the Chesterites' first home game of the season and a thousand football fans saw a strong Wierton high team go down to defeat before a eleven that outclassed the visitors from start to finish.

It was a real football combat, the Wilde eleven making its gains by line smashes and wide sweeping runs around the flanks. Wierton's gains were made by forward and lateral passes and plunges through the line.

The figures showed that the sticks moved 12 times for Chester to five for Wierton. Wierton got away with three out of five passes, while the Chester boys did not use the forward pass at any stage of the game.

Failure to stop the line thrusts of Kimble and the wide open runs of Shaw and John proved to be the downfall of Wierton and the principle factors in Chester's victory.

There was no scoring done in the first quarter, Chester having a slight edge.

In the second period the combination of Shaw, Kimble and Johnson got started. And with Kimble hitting the line and Shaw and Johnson going around the terminals for big gains Johnson went over for a touchdown, on a fifteen yard run around right end.

The try for point after touchdown was missed. Wierton showed up the

Lutherans Still Lead Ohio Circle

Oberlin Beats Akron, 19-14, in Most Important Game.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 7.—Oberlin defeated Akron, 19 to 14, in the most important Ohio conference game Saturday, while other conference teams ran true to advance predictions.

Western Reserve showed improvement, but the pioneers were defeated by Wooster, 6 to 9. Miami ran up a 34 to 6 score on Ohio Northern, while Mt. Union won a 34 to 12 victory at the expense of case.

Baldwin-Wallace defeated the weak Hiram team, 19 to 0, and Kenyon beat Marietta, 7 to 0. Muskingum had no trouble beating Heidelberg, 33 to 0 and Ohio university took a hard-fought game from Denison, 7 to 0.

Wittenberg continues to top the conference following a non-conference game with Bethany in which the Lutherans nosed out ahead, 3 to 0. Wesleyan, St. Xavier and Cincinnati also played outside games.

Wittenberg also heads the Buckeye Athletic association and is virtually certain of a championship or at least a tie for the honors in that circuit.

Toledo practically clinched its claim to the Northwest Ohio conference title by winning from Defiance, 16 to 7, Friday, although Bowling Green still remains a threat.

Standings of the three conferences, following the weekend battles, are as follows:

Team	Won	Lost	Pct.
Wittenberg	3	0	1.000
Dayton	1	0	1.000
St. Xavier	1	0	1.000
Miami	5	1	.833

ILLINOIS-CHICAGO MAY BE BIG FACTOR

Maroon Victory, Not Impossible, Would Gum Things up; Minnesota Plays Drake; Other Conference Teams in Breathers.

By Jimmy Corcoran.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—It begins to look as though those who follow conference football will have to wait until the last day of the season to find out the identity of 1927 Big Ten King and even if they wait that long there may not be an exclusive titleholder.

Last Saturday's ball games did nothing at all to clear up the middle around the top of the standing. Illinois, one of the joint holders of first place, swatted Iowa while Minnesota went out of the conference to battle Notre Dame.

Looking forward to next Saturday's pastimes we find that Minnesota has decided to rest up after the Notre Dame affair by playing Drake, but that ball game at Urbana between Illinois and Chicago may gum up things a bit.

Stagg Has Chance. There are few around the south side who hope for a Maroon victory but this doesn't indicate that the Stags haven't a chance to do it. Strange things happen in modern football and it may be that Father Stagg will have a little trick or two that might ruin Zuppke's title hopes.

It is only sensible to figure that Illinois will win and if that happens then the boys and girls will have to look forward to Nov. 19 when Illinois meets Ohio State and Minnesota engages Michigan.

If both the Illini and the Gophers win their last tilts of the season we will have two eleven tied for first place. If that's the case you'll probably hear a lot of argument to the effect that Illinois should be awarded the championship because the Gophers were held to a tie by Indiana, a team which is low in the race.

Not Much Doing. The conference schedule doesn't look any too enticing for those who like their football the way it is played in the Big Ten. Outside of the Chicago-Illinois game there isn't so much to rave about. Northwestern takes on Indiana and the result will prove which team is the worst. The Wisconsin-Iowa game will prove little or nothing. Ohio State is playing Denison, Purdue will oppose Franklin and Minnesota relaxes with Drake.

35 PRISONERS
GIVEN FREEDOM

Thirty-five prisoners were released from the state penitentiary last week on paroles and conditional pardons granted at the last meeting of the state parole board.

All of the applications for the paroles or the pardons had been made several months ago. The applications were investigated by Pardon Attorney A. G. Jenkins before they were submitted to the parole board for action.

Release of the prisoners will tend to relieve the congestion in the prison somewhat. However, the places of those who left are expected to be soon filled with the regular winter influx of prisoners at the prison.

But few of those who have been released were long terms. One of the group was a life-timer, who had already spent 16 years behind the bars.
